NORTH EAST WIND.

Tastings of Punch -One of Panch's cor respondents laughs at Mr. Chas. Kingsley for singing the praises of the North East wind .-

He asks-"What does the man meat? Has he nerve in his body? Is he susceptible of ca-tarrh, influenza, bronchitis, and the other ills that miserable flesh is beir to in this climate? Has he a constitution of cast iron, a skin of triple brass, and muscles of steel wire?— Does he know what it is, as he lies in bed of a morning, to feel that twinge of indescribable alloverishness, which announces that the eastwind is blowing outside the house?-Does be not feel bis eyes smart, bis skin scorch and shrivel, his every limb ache, appetite go, and his temper break down altogether, whenever this same abominable wind prewails, as it does three days out of four in this infernal climate of ours?

I say again, what does the man mean by it? I am told he is the poet of a school of mus-cular Christians! I hate your muscular people-they are, as a rule, impudent, blustering, loud and overbearing. They grate on one's nerves. They act upon one a good deal as the east wind itself does - set one longing to be wrapped up warm, and rolled away into be wrapped up warm, and rolled away in-to a corner, or at all events buried, it matters IN BAGS AND BARRELS. A VERY EX-and Mitts, in great variety; Parasols and Skirts, little how, out of the misery of this dreary world-and as if it is not enough to have to endure the east wind, I must submit to have it sung, celebrated, praised, rejoiced in, made Here is

My Song of the North East Wind. Hang thee, vile north easter Other things may be Very bad to bear with,

Nothing equals thee. Grim and gray north easter, Fom each Essex-bog, From the Plaistow marshes, Rolling London fog-"Tired we are of summer"

Kingsley may declare, I give the assertion, Contradiction bare; I, in bed this morning Felt thee, as I lay : "There's a vile north easter

Out of doors to-day!" Set the dust-clouds blowing Till each face they strike, With the blacks is growing Chimney sweeper like. Fill our rooms with smoke-gusts From the chimney-pipe,

Fill our eyes with water That defies the wipe. Through the draughty passage Whistle loud and high, Making doors and windows Rattle, flap and fly; Hark, that vile north easter Roaring up the vent,

Nipping soul and body, Breeding discontent! Squall, my noisy children; Smoke, my parlor gate; Scold, my shrewish partner; I accept my fate. All is quite in tune with

This north eastern blast; Who can look for comfort Till this wind be past ? If all goes contrary, Who can feel surprise. With this rude north easter In his teeth and eyes?

It blows much too often, Nine days out of ten, Yet we boast our climate, Like true English men In their soft south easters Could I bask at ease. I'd let France and Naples

Bully as they please; But while this north easter Liberty seems worth just Nothing in the world. Come, as came our fathers Heralded by thee,

Blasting, blighting, burning Out of Normandie Come and flay and skin us, And dry up our blood-All to have a Kingsley Swear it does him good!

SOLOMON AND THE SOWER. [From the German of Ruckert.] In open field King Solomon Beneath the sky sets up his throne; He sees a sower walking, sowing, On every side the seed corn throwing.

"What dost thou there ?" exclaimed the King, "The ground here can no harvest bring. Break off from such unwise beginning Thou'lt get no crop that's worth the winning.'

And doubtful he stands still, and thinks; Then goes he forward, strong and steady, For the wise King this answer ready: "I've nothing else but this one field

I've watched it, labored it, and tilled; What further use of pausing, guessing? The corn from me; from God the blessing! BOARD OF HEALTH.—A meeting of the Board of Health, of this city, was held at

THE GREAT SOUTHERN CLOTHING ESTABLISHMENT AS FLOURISHING AS EVER.—I beg leave to announce to my friends, in this city and abroad, that I am now daily receiving a large stock of SPRING and SUMMER CLOTHING, which, having been manufactured to my especial order at the North, I am enabled to guarantee them for good, durable, and well made Clothing, which I can sell at Northern prices, and cheaper than any other establishment in this city. Country merchants would do well, before purchasing elsewhere, to call and examine my well selected stock of Clothing, which I will sell at such rates that they again can sell them at Alexandria retail prices. I have, also, on my last visit to the North, made arrangements for manufacturing Clothing to measure, at the shortest notice; which, for neatness, fashion, and durability, will defy competition.
